

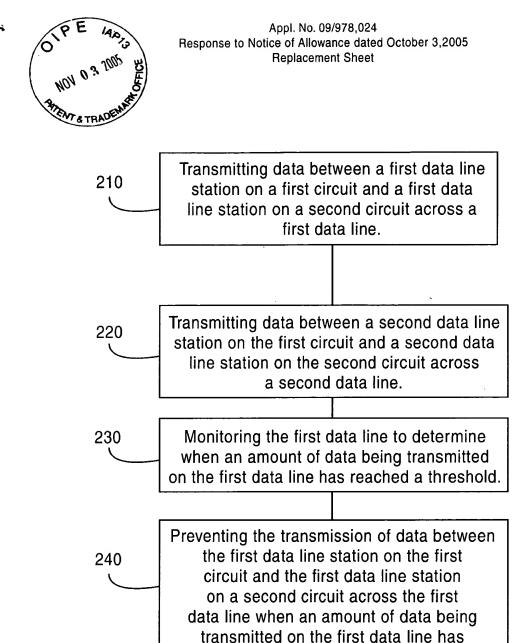

FIG.1

Transmitting data between the first data line station on the first circuit and the first data line station on the second circuit across the second data line when an amount of data being transmitted on the first data line has reached a threshold.

FIG.2

reached a threshold.